The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council
of California

The 1941 State Legislature is rushing pell-mell toward adjournment, working day and night in an eleventh-hour drive to reach decisions on major issues and dispose of hundreds of miscellaneous bills still pending.

While some of the hottest battles of the session are over, there are still critical days ahead—for it is during the final weeks, when bills are jammed through with only superficial consideration, that dangerous legislation is most likely to get through unnoticed.

Legislators from farming districts, and conservative members generally, who have fought throughout the session to keep the bars up against extravagant spending and visionary experimentation, must now redouble their vigilance to spike crack-pot proposals and check the flood of "pork barrel" special appropriation bills.

The danger from special appropriation measures, during the closing weeks of this session, is greater than usual, due to the fact that the state revenues are booming, under the impetus of defense spending.

Of particular significance, under the circumstances, is the recent appeal of Harold D. Smith, Federal budget director, that all local expenditures be held to a minimum.

Budget Director Smith has frankly declared that the national defense program is going to require every last dollar the taxpayer can spare—and more! And to avoid encroachment on federal tax sources, he has appealed to state and local officials throughout the country to postpone any enterprises which are not imperative, so that the nation's resources will be available to carry on the preparedness program.

Despite that warning, however, terrific pressure will undoubtedly be brought to bear on the legislature between now and adjournment to approve millions of dollars worth of special appropriation bills—some of which will likely be adorned with national defense trappings to lessen resistance. As a matter of fact, some of the dog-eared proposals now being put forward as "defense measures" were kicking around the legislature when Hitler was still a corporal.

Bona fide national defense measures, however—such as the anti-sabotage act, repeal of the secondary boycott and numerous proposals to clamp down on Communists and Bundists—have occupied much time of the lawmakers.

Organized labor already has bitterly condemned the 1941 legislature as "anti-labor." Nothing could be farther from the truth. As a matter of fact, there have been many times when farm groups and other branches of the community, outraged by labor excesses have requested more drastic action than the legislature has taken.

Members of the legislature, for the most part, recognized the imperative need of legislation which would permit agriculture, business and industry to meet the national government's demands for high-speed, uninterrupted production.

And faced with that need, they took action, in several instances, designed to forestall unwarranted work-stoppages. The fate of some of this legislation, however, is still in doubt, due to labor opposition.

To this writer, one of the gloomiest aspects of the 1941 session—at least as it bears on the nation's welfare—has been the stubborn refusal of labor leaders to recognize that an emergency exists and that labor has responsibilities as well as privileges. Thus far, labor's attitude

BUCK'S BAR BRIDGE CONTRACT LET FOR $7,495

Contract to erect a reinforced concrete bridge on the Buck's Bar road at the Cosumnes River, was let during the week by the Board of Supervisors to Hector Williamson, of Springvale.

Mr. Williamson was the only bidder on the job. His basic offer was to build the bridge for $7,495. In the event more cement is required for abutments than surveys indicated, the extra cement will be at an added figure.

The contractor expects to start work early in July.

GRADUATION ON FRIDAY EVENING

H. S. Class Narrows To 109; "Highways" Theme For Four Student Speakers

With "Highways" as the commencement theme, one hundred nine county high school students reach a junction in the road of life Friday evening when they claim their diplomas of graduation.

The exercises will be held in the auditorium, opening at eight o'clock, with diplomas going to a class of one hundred nine members, one less than had been expected.

The commencement program will open with the school orchestra playing the "Triumphal March" from Verdi's "Aida." Reverend Harold Morehouse will speak the invocation.

Theme for the graduation is a quotation from Blaise Pascal, seventeenth century French philosopher and physicist: "Highways bear us whither we wish to go."

Following the tradition of the school commencement, the principal talks will be by outstanding students of the graduating class. Of the four student speakers, all have been outstanding students and three are California Scholastic Federation Sealbearers, which means that for the past eight semesters they have been honor roll students.

"Highways to Citizenship" will be the subject for a talk by Caroline Wallace, one of the Sealbearers. Robert Weidman, another of the Sealbearers, will discuss "Highways to a Wise Use of Leisure Time."

"Highways to Professions" is the subject assigned Eleanor Swift, and William C. Dillinger, a Sealbearer, will speak on "Highways to Vocations."

Following an orchestra number, Miss Lois Evans, secretary of the Girls League Scholarship Committee, will announce the awarding of that scholarship.

The awards to the outstanding girl and boy member of the class by El Dorado Post No. 119, American Legion, will be announced by Paul

Rodeo Attracts County Riders

Spectacular Wild West Event Will Include Show Of County Horses

The Pony Express Rodeo, to be held Sunday, June 15th, at the county fair grounds, will attract El Dorado County riders as well as some of the better known professional rodeo performers of the state.

The rodeo is being arranged by a committee of El Dorado Post No. 119, American Legion, and will include a horse show, with entries limited to El Dorado County stock. This feature of the program is being arranged under the chairmanship of Lloyd Cannon, and entries may be filed with him.

Jess Tong, of Clarksville, and Francis Bacchi, of Lotus, are two of the El Dorado County riders who have entered the rodeo events. The committee in charge reports that there are some other entries from El Dorado County, but that their names are not known since rodeo entries are being filed with Bob Barnby, of Perkins, who will have charge.

Among the better known performers who will take part are Glenn Shaw, of Escalon, whose broncho busting and bulldogging was a feature of the Amador Rodeo last Sunday, Johnnie Bowman, former world's champion cowboy and Gene Rambo.

Steve Shannon, the cowboy clown, also has been contracted for the show.

Barnby is bringing more than one hundred head of rodeo stock to the show, including his string of Brahmas bulls.

The rodeo committee also is sponsoring a model airplane contest at the fairgrounds on Saturday, June 14, and entries may be filed with T. S. Marlor, who is in charge.

The rodeo organization has announced plans to participate in the parade being planned for Saturday evening, June 14, incident to the meeting in Placerville of the Sacramento Valley Division of De Molays.

JAPS INCREASE TRADE DEMANDS

Dutch East Indies Given 24 Hours To Accept Plan For Sweeping Concessions

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies (U)—Japan has demanded acceptance within 24 hours of its proposals for sweeping economic concessions and the Netherlands East Indies government had made it plain that it will not give in, it was learned today.

Tension increased as the deadline approached. Japanese negotiators threatened that if their demands were not accepted they would refer the entire problem to the Japanese government. This would mean the renoual of the negotiations from the economic to the political sphere, with the Japanese and Netherlands governments acting directly.

Netherlands Indies negotiators held out against the demands, with government approval, because they fear that any additional rubber and tin Japan gets from the Netherlands East Indies will mean only additional shipments of those essential war commodities to Germany.

MISS RUTH DAVIS WILL WED MELVIN FOULK, OF PORTOLA

Friends of Miss Ruth Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Davis, of Broadway, Placerville, are receiving cards revealing her engagement to wed Melvin Foulk, of Portola.

Formal announcement of the engagement was made Sunday at a social event at Oroville, former home of the Davis family, and also the home of Mr. Foulk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Foulk.

Miss Davis has revealed the couple are planning to wed on July 12, and that the ceremony probably will take place in Nevada. They will establish their home at Portola, where Mr. Foulk is employed with the Western Pacific railroad.

The bride-elect was educated in Oroville schools and was employed in the local Ford automobile dealership under previous management and was retained in the service of Lutz Motor Sales in the change of management more than a year ago.

During the past three months, Chrysolite lodge has initiated nine candidates for membership, who are: Mrs. Maude Schneider, Mrs. Dorothy Meyers, Mrs. Julia Smith, Mrs. Lora Gust, Mrs. Wanda Walker, Mrs. Ruth Johnson, Miss Eleanor Wright, Miss Marguerite Buys and Henry Lee.

SYRIAN ACTION MAY FLARE AT ANY TIME

De Gaulle Negotiates For British; Germans "Control" Black Sea

By UNITED PRESS

A middle eastern front today appeared ready to open in Syria at almost any moment.

British reports emphasized that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British middle eastern generalissimo, now feels free to "extend his front"—a statement that seemed to apply clearly to Syria.

There was a hint Gen. Charles De Gaulle, free French leader who is now in Palestine, may be engaged in negotiations seeking to persuade Syrian authorities to allow a peaceful occupation of the country by the British.

This arose from a statement that De Gaulle's mission in Palestine was much more important than mediating differences between his lieutenant, Gen. Georges Catroux, and Wavell which Turkish reports alleged have arisen.

A brief dispatch from Bucharest said Rumanian shipping has been made available to the Germans for troop movement.

This report appeared to confirm middle eastern rumors in circulation for several days that the Germans have embarked or are about to embark troops at Constanza for transport through the Black Sea and possibly the Dardanelles enroute to new middle eastern fighting sectors.

Turkish reports spoke of Axis "control" of the Black Sea, giving rise to speculation as to Russia's attitude concerning German operations in this water area.

The Royal Air Force engaged in a widespread series of raids on Axis strongholds in Libya and the Dodecanese Islands, possibly designed to impede Axis efforts to interfere with any campaign against Syria.

Istanbul reported German ground forces have taken over the French airfield at Palmyra, Syria.

Miss LeBourveau Weds In Nevada

Planned Elopement Is Success With Help Of The Bride's Parents

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. LeBourveau on Thursday were announcing to friends the marriage of their daughter, Miss Donna Le Bourveau, and Douglas Hayden Simpson, of Montrose, Colorado, on Wednesday morning at Gardnerville, Nevada.

Mr. Simpson is attached to the quartermaster department in the Army Air Corps and is stationed at Hamilton Field. A transfer to Phoenix, Arizona, is in prospect and Mrs. Simpson has returned to her work in the state social welfare department at Sacramento, with plans to rejoin her husband at Phoenix when he is established there.

The marriage was planned by the two as an elopement, Mrs. Le Bourveau reported on Thursday. However, the secret was given away by Sacramento friends with the result that Mr. and Mrs. Le Bourveau met the couple as they got off the Greyhound bus at Reno Tuesday night.

It was fortunate that they did, for such necessary details as a clerk to issue a license, and a minister to officiate, were not immediately available, and Mr. Simpson's period of leave from his Army duties was limited.

Happily, the Le Bourveau car was available, however, and the knot was tied at Gardnerville. Mr. and Mrs. LeBourveau accompanied the couple to San Rafael and Mr. Simpson checked in at his Army station on schedule.

Donna is a graduate of the local schools and of a Sacramento business training school. We join with her many other friends in every good wish to the couple for their mutual happiness.

Henry Steitz was a visitor on Thursday at Sacramento.

Too Close to the Panama Canal

The possibility of swift American action to place French Martinique, Guadeloupe and probably French Guiana under "protective custody" is believed foreshadowed by the Vichy collaboration with the Axis. Martinique long has been proclaimed by defense experts as an air and naval base site essential in the ring of island fortresses protecting the Panama Canal.

TIMBER LEAGUE ROLLS TONIGHT; 49ERS TO FINISH ON FRIDAY

The regular series in the Timber League of the county bowling association will be in order tonight at the Pear Bowl. Although the Timber Leaguers had been bowling regularly on Wednesday night, the last few weeks of their schedule were switched to Thursday night to avoid conflict with the softball series. The Timber League will wind up next week.

On Friday night, the Forty-Niner league will roll a double-header and wind up its schedule. The Forty-Niners would have finished this week ordinarily, but have one postponed series to play as a result of the Memorial Day postponement.

Mrs. Mary Maul underwent an operation Thursday morning at Placerville Sanatorium and her condition afterward is reported as satisfactory. It will be several days, it was indicated, before Mrs. Maul will be receiving visitors.

Wayne E. Woolley, of Placerville, is reported as being a recent recruit to the United States Army in the recruiting office at Sacramento.

Newtown School Reunion Group Will Lend 38-Star Flag To History Society

The sixth annual reunion of teachers and pupils of the Newtown School, held Sunday at the old school grounds, voted to lend to the County Historical Society for display in the headquarters of the society in Placerville the historic old flag used by the reunion group which many years ago belonged to the old community of Newtown.

The flag, made in 1876, has thirty-eight stars, and was used as a community flag in Newtown. Later it passed to the care of the father of John Gardella, of Camino, and through John Gardella came to be used by the reunion group.

The picnic Sunday opened with luncheon and the day was devoted to renewing old friendships and reviewing old times. John A. Raffetto, Sr., presided at the exercises which opened with a roll call by Mrs. Rose Kimble followed by the Salute to the Flag. Readings, recitations and songs made up the program.

The group voted to meet on the second Sunday in June of 1942 in an attempt to avoid conflict with other activities, and it was voted that each member of the group will be prepared to contribute to the program at the next meeting.

Former pupils and teachers were present from a large area including points as far away as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Chico, Sacramento, and from different parts of El Dorado County.

USO COUNCIL FORMED IN COUNTY

Civic Groups Unite In Luncheon Meeting Held Thursday At Raffles

A council of the national United Service Organizations, which is being formed to attend to the leisure time entertainment of men actively in military service in the national defense program, was formed in El Dorado County on Thursday at a luncheon meeting at Hotel Raffles.

Mrs. Maybelle Timm, of Kelsey, was named President, and Mrs. Hazel Volz was named secretary-treasurer.

Others on the council committee include Wallace M. Ripley, and E. Ogden Hook, representing the chamber of commerce; A. H. Murray and B. E. Larson, representing the Lions; George Luneman, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars; C. T. Bryan, representing the Spanish-American War Veterans; Dell Cheney, representing the Shakespeare Club; Henry S. Lyon, district attorney; Paul R. Smith, representing the American Legion; Dr. W. A. Rantz, representing the draft board.

E. Ogden Hook was temporary chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Hook explains the purposes of the USO as being to unify the various activities devoted to the entertainment and comfort of the men in the active naval and military service.

"Some may remember that during the World War there were a number of organizations, all doing good work, along this line, but that their work overlapped and resulted in duplication; not only duplication of effort, but also duplication of requests for financial support."

"The government is building camp club rooms for the men in service and the United Service Organizations will operate them and will be the central administrative organization for all of the groups which will be interested in contributing toward assisting in providing healthful leisure time recreation and entertainment for the men in camps."

Strike Closes Plane Plant

North American Factory At Inglewood Shut Down In Dispute Over Wages

INGLEWOOD (U)—A strike called by the United Automobile Workers (CIO) today closed down the giant North American Aviation's plant, a General Motors subsidiary which produces about one-fifth of this country's output of military planes.

The CIO union, which claims a membership of approximately 8,000 of the plant's 12,000 employees, called the strike after negotiating since April over a demand for higher wages.

The North American announced that the plant would be closed pending word from the national defense mediation board in Washington, D. C. The strike was called when the factory shut down for three hours, as usual, at 3 a. m. The company's announcement came before time to re-open at 6 a. m.

TRIPLET BOYS BORN AT SANATORIUM; ONE FAILED TO LIVE

Triplet sons were born Wednesday at Placerville Sanatorium to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stevenson, of Placerville. One of the babes passed away about six hours after delivery.

The other two are in an incubator and "doing fairly well," according to Doctor Charles Soracco, who attended Mrs. Stevenson. The babies were born something more than two months earlier than the normal term.

One of them weighed two pounds and the other two pounds and ten ounces at birth. The third baby and the one which failed to survive, weighed two pounds and twelve ounces.

The Stevensons have no other children. Medical men report that triplet births occur about once in eight thousand deliveries.

LOCHINVAR IN RAGS

by KATHRYN CULVER

Julie Hamilton, small-town Southern girl, regrets her half-hearted engagement to Kenneth Terry. When Barry Caldwell, impoverished young Westerner, appears at her door and faints from hunger, she falls in love with him at first sight. She invites him to her birthday party. When he tells her he loves her, she confesses her love for him, and breaks her engagement to Kenneth. A little later, however, to prevent a fight between Barry and Kenneth, she desperately tells Barry she has merely been flirting with him. The next morning, she tries to explain, but he is very bitter. He is about to go on his way, when Kenneth challenges him to ride a wild, unbroken horse. He takes the dare and is thrown. When he is taken to a hospital, Julie is in anguish until she learns he is only slightly injured. She is not allowed to see him, but arranges with her cousin, Normandy Buford, to take her back to the hospital that afternoon.

CHAPTER XIX

LATE that afternoon, Julie sat before her dressing table preparing for what she was convinced would be the most important moment of her life. All day, she had been thinking about what she would say to Barry when she saw him this afternoon—and she had reached a daring decision. She was going to propose to him!

That, she had decided, was the only way to convince him that she did truly love him, and had lied to him last night. Of course, it was a brazen thing to do, but after all, she wouldn't do it if she didn't know he loved her—if he hadn't told her so with unmistakable fervor. She had always thought that the heroines of novels, who let pride come between them and love were awfully silly, and had always vowed that she herself would never act so foolishly. Well, here was her chance to prove that she was not too proud to speak out frankly to win the man she loved.

The only thing that bothered her was that he might be too proud to accept her proposal. He might again raise the question of his poverty—as he had last night in the garden. Well, if he took that stand, she would simply brush it aside—refuse to listen to him.

AS FAR as she was concerned, she was ready to marry him this minute—to face the world with him, gladly sharing his struggles—even if her father should disown her. However, she knew that Barry would never agree to anything so reckless. That, she could understand. But there was no reason why they shouldn't become engaged.

Her eyes bright, her cheeks flushed, she leaned close to the mirror, applying her make-up, arranging her hair in a flattering coiffure. She must look her very loveliest for this momentous occasion!

She sat back and surveyed her reflection—and knew that she was indeed looking her best. Love did that to you. It brought something out in you—it lit you up.

An expression of dreamy rapture crept over her face as she sat there visualizing the approaching scene with Barry. What she would say, what he would answer, it would be awkward at first, of course. He would still be nursing his resentment against her—would be like he had been this morning—cold and proud. But this time it would end so differently.

this time she would break through his reserve. A smile hovered on her lips as she pictured his face when she should come right out and propose to him. After that, she jerked herself back to the present and glanced at the clock. It was setting late! She mustn't sit here dreaming. Normandy was to call for her at five—and she must be ready when he came. She jumped up and rummaged in her closet for her most becoming frock.

SHE was radiant as she greeted Normandy a little later—so radiant that it made an instant impression on him.

"My my!" he said. "What's happened to you since this morning? You were fit for the role of a tragedy queen the last time I saw you! And now look at you! Why you're positively dazzling! Have you taken some kind of charmed potion?"

"It's a secret!" She laughed happily. His eyes twinkled. "I have a suspicion, you designing minx, that you're getting ready to put some high-powered pressure on that poor young man in the hospital. Just like a woman—to take advantage of a fellow when he's flat on his back and helpless!"

"I mean to do my best!" Julie said gaily. "And if he doesn't listen to me, I'll make the hospital keep him flat on his back indefinitely—until he is ready to listen to me!" Normandy laughed. "You're terribly in earnest aren't you?"

"I am!" Then Julie sobered, and said, "Oh, Normy, I simply must make him understand about last night! Do—do you think I can?"

"I'll horsewhip him," Normandy promised. "If he persists in being stubborn." He patted Julie's shoulder. "Don't worry—he'll come around."

Julie asked anxiously, "You're sure aren't you, that we can see him? I'm going to be dreadfully disappointed if I'm turned away again."

"It's all right," Normandy told her. "I phoned the hospital an hour ago to make sure. They said Barry was awake, feeling much better—and kicking like a steer over being kept in bed."

TEN minutes later, as they mounted the steps of the hospital and entered, Julie's heart was pounding. Now that the moment was almost at hand, she began to have qualms—began to fear that she wouldn't have the courage to go through with her plan. Oh, she mustn't weaken now!

She mentally contrasted this visit with that awful time this morning when she had come with Edith and Kenneth, not knowing whether Barry would live or die. Even the atmosphere of the reception hall seemed different. This morning, a woman had sat weeping over there in the corner. Now in the same corner, a young couple were laughing, with muffled gaiety. Julie waited impatiently while Normandy went to the desk to ask if they could go straight up to Barry's room. As he came back, she saw an expression on his face that made her heart turn over. Weren't they to be allowed to see Barry after all?

Forcing lightness into her tone, she asked, "He doesn't refuse to see us, does he?"

Normandy hesitated, then said slowly, "He's disappeared. Julie—gone. He apparently got bold of his clothes while the nurse's back was turned and somehow managed to slip out of the hospital. They can't find a trace of him."

Gone? Julie stared at her cousin with wide eyes.

NUGGETS STUFF

A SUGGESTION advanced during the week is that something might be done by way of posting signs to call attention to the wildflowers growing along our highways.

The idea is offered by Dr. J. B. Schafhirt, of Whitehall, who took note on a trip to Placerville of the beautiful dogwood blossoming along U. S.

The season appears to have been especially favorable to the dogwood this year, and we learn that the Scotch Broom on the North Side has been luxuriantly in bloom, too.

ALTHOUGH Dr. Schafhirt expressed an interest in joining with others to erect roadside signs calling attention to, and cautioning against the picking or cutting of the wildflowers, we believe that the proposition is no mere local project, and that it is almost statewide.

Why shouldn't the matter be taken up with the Department of Public Works?

Signs which might be erected by local groups would be frowned upon by the Department of Public Works, and anyway, wildflowers in different seasons are found generally throughout the state. It seems that it might be as much to the advantage of the state as a whole to have such signs erected, as it would be to El Dorado County to have local signs in this county.

WHILE it is true that the flowers are there, in season, for all to see, so are the pieces in a museum; but how much more museum pieces mean to us when we read a card directing our attention to them and telling us something about them. Tourists who come to California want to be shown such things and are impressed by them.

STILL ON the tourist subject, our Coloma correspondent reports upward of seven hundred visitors registered last weekend at Marshall Monument State Park. These registered. There were doubtless many more who called at the park and did not register.

These people came from nine states of the Union, from Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines and Shanghai, China. They registered at the park and therefore their names and their home cities are available.

We have previously suggested that the county might gain columns of free newspaper advertising in the papers in the home towns of these people, if some agency could attend to writing up a little story about Coloma, Marshall Park and the discovery of gold and send it to the paper in the city from which the visitors registered, saying that the people were here.

If the item only got three inches in a newspaper in a city of 150,000, it would be space that would cost three or four dollars to purchase, yet it is available to us at no charge, if we will write the story and mail it with a three cent stamp.

GRADUATION-time is a reminder that young men and young women, too, are leaving high school and college to begin to take active part in the world. As a rule, those who are leaving college have spent the past two years in special study which fits them with the tools for beginning work.

To some extent, this is true of the high school graduates, too, although the scholastic graduates lack professional qualifications and, in many cases, lack business or industrial training.

A CALLER at what we like to call our office this week was John E. Devine.

Mr. Devine is "the boss" for the NYA in the Sacramento area of the state. We call him "the boss" because he said his official title is longer than a piece of rope and he never did say just what it is, but he's in charge, anyway.

The NYA is engaged in training young men and young women, ages 18 to 25, for useful occupations. It affords secretarial experience, trains girls for service as domestics, and trains young men for various trades AND IS PLACING THEM IN JOBS.

It used to be that NYA training was restricted to the youth from families on relief rolls, but no more. However, Mr. Devine said, when the need for trained workers is reduced (if ever), then family income will be a consideration in restricting the scope of the program.

If anyone in the age group has "nothing particular" in mind, and feels an interest in the possibilities of this NYA program, it won't do a bit of harm to address a note to Mr. Devine, whose offices are in Room 700, Plaza Building, Sacramento, and next time he comes to Placerville, which will be about two weeks hence, perhaps he will look you up and explain the NYA program.

THE RELIEF feature, has also disappeared from the CCC program and at Camp Oelder, right here in the county, we have a training school being conducted under high school supervision in the CCC.

It used to be that the objectives of the program were (1) to develop work and relief for needy unemployed; (2) to conserve natural resources and (3) to train young men for competence in self-support. At the present time, however, those three objectives have been just about reversed, and training in industrial pursuits is being emphasized.

And here, too, is a field for inquiry if you are a young man of CCC age and looking forward to "nothing in particular."

And, just by way of emphasis, if you're looking forward to "nothing in particular," you're wasting time. Look forward to something!

Flashing back daily dispatches, a new generation of war correspondents is in the field, carrying on brilliantly the traditions of men whose names are newspaper legend—such men as Richard Harding Davis and Webb Miller, Floyd Gibbons and William G. Shepherd.

The young, veteran correspondents who have distinguished themselves in this war are, for the most part, United Press reporters—reporters like Jan Yindrich, the only newspaperman with the British forces in beleaguered Tobruk; like Richard McMillan and Henry Gorrell, partners in the fortunes of the Empire forces in Greece from the first skirmish through the evacuation; like Joseph Grigg, Jr., who followed the German armies into Belgrade and Athens; like H. L. Percy, writer of a word-picture of bombed, flame-swept Plymouth that is newspaper literature.

These men and scores of others in the United Press foreign corps are achieving feats of reporting that rank with the finest of all time and that are setting new high standards for all war correspondence to come. They are giving readers of United Press newspapers the world's best coverage of the world's biggest news.

Camino Student At U. C. Outstanding

Camino friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yensen are sharing with them their pride and satisfaction with the work of their son, Elwood, who is a candidate for graduation at the coming mid-year.

Elwood is working in Berkeley—friends report he is a gardener at Hotel Claremont—putting in thirty-five hours a week to help himself through school.

And he is serious about the matter, too—as witness an "A" grade in every subject for the past semester.

Perhaps he will have more time to study during the coming semester, for his scholastic achievement has earned him a scholarship.

"Bob" Edwards Gravely Ill At Sacramento Hospital

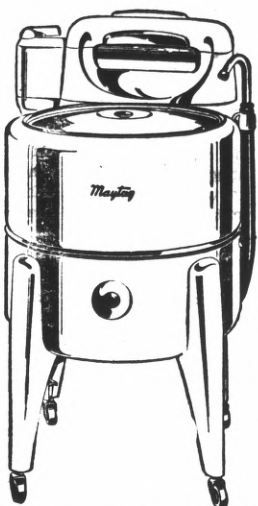

The condition of E. R. "Bob" Edwards, who during the week has been a patient at a hospital in Sacramento, continues very grave it was reported Thursday morning.

Mr. Edwards was removed to the hospital on Saturday last and one leg was amputated above the knee as an extreme treatment for gangrene, which was a result of hardening of the arteries, of which Mr. Edwards had been afflicted for some time.

Virgil Sneed, who suffered a broken leg at Camp San Luis Obispo last week, will be hospitalized for about two months. We learn that Sneed's injury resulted from a fall while on duty on the rifle range. This will be of interest to those who took seriously the report he was injured while answering mess call.

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex., (UP)—The state of Michigan placed the largest number of flying cadets in the newest class at Randolph Field, the army has announced. Michigan led the list of states with 40. Texas was second with 38 while Illinois with 36 and California with 32 followed closely behind.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council

—as displayed at Sacramento—is that the national defense program is just another WPA project and that everybody is entitled to fight to get his share of the loot.

Certainly there has been no disposition to recognize that if farmers and school teachers, and grocers and housewives, must make sacrifices, labor, too, must make sacrifices.

Under the circumstances, members of the Legislature who have stood up, against tremendous labor pressure, for measures to prevent sabotaging of the state's productive machinery, are to be congratulated both on their courage and their wisdom. Likewise, members who have held the fort against extravagance and reckless expenditures, deserve a hand from their home districts. It is to be hoped that they will stay by their guns until the final gavel falls!

3 Girls Escape As Car Skids, Overturns

Kay Stevens, Barbara Shore and Maryagnes Allison, all of the high school graduating class and all of Camino, escaped serious injury on Wednesday night as the Stevens car, with Kay at the wheel, skidded on a soft shoulder near the Six-Mile ranch on U. S. 50, and overturned.

Barbara continued to the Senior Ball, but Miss Stevens and Miss Allison were shaken and nervous. X-ray examinations failed to reveal any fractures and the two were reported up and about Thursday.

The car was badly wrecked.

License to wed is reported from Reno as having been issued during the week to Forrest W. Higgins, Jr., 49, of Klamath Falls, and Sadie Kessler, 49, of Placerville.

Draft Calls 2 On June 16th

Preparations Are Being Made For Registration For Service On July 1st

The names of the two men who will supply the county quota of two in Selective Service on June 16th were announced during the week at the headquarters of the county selective service board. They are OWEN E. Hearold and Otis K. Norris.

The men are to report at Sacramento for induction on June 16th. The selective service also revealed that plans are being made for the registration of young men of the county who have attained their twenty-first birthday since the registration last September.

This, it is now indicated, may be held throughout the nation Tuesday, July 1. The registration will be conducted through the various selective service boards.

Present plans, it appears, are that there will be but one registration office in El Dorado County, and that at the board headquarters in Placerville.

Under this arrangement, it may be more convenient for those who live in the county but nearer adjacent county seats than they are to Placerville, to register in Auburn, Jackson or Carson City.

ARTHUR CURTISS JAMES, RAILROAD MAGNATE, IS DEAD

NEW YORK, (UP)—Arthur Curtiss James, 74, railroad financier and reputedly one of the 10 richest men in the United States, died last night of pneumonia.

He became ill four days ago and was taken to Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. His wife, Harriet Eddy Parsons James, died May 15 of heart disease. They had no children.

The funeral will be Saturday morning. James cut off 170 miles of the transcontinental railroad route by building Moffet Tunnel through the Colorado mountains. He then joined the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Denver and Rio Grande and the Western Pacific to make his trunk from Chicago to San Francisco.
